

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

Through the combined efforts of the UC Santa Barbara ASBMB* chapter and SciTrek, we are bringing SciTrek's first high school module to San Marcos High School!

In this three-day module, students will learn about the four major biological macromolecules and use different techniques to measure them quantitatively in synthetic samples.

We are actively recruiting volunteers to help run the module this quarter. If you are looking for volunteer hours, are interested in teaching, or simply enjoy biology or biochemistry, this module is an excellent opportunity to use critical thinking skills to teach science to a high school class.
